

PTA Activities 2011 – 2012

Boo Hoo Breakfast	For parents only. See old friends, make new friends and have a bite to eat on the first day of school.
Back to School Picnic	Spread your blanket and get a slice of pizza or a sub- but be sure to save room for Carmen's.
Volunteer Orientation Sessions	It's more important than it sounds. You cannot volunteer in the school or for any PTA activity without having completed the orientation. Without the orientation, the PTA's insurance compliance is in jeopardy.
Back to School Nights	Not only is this a chance to meet your child's teachers and the school administration, but you will gather all sorts of vital information from the PTA. It's a time to learn about all aspects of Fallsmead Elementary School.
New Parent Welcome	New parents are taking in a huge amount of information. This is a time to ask questions and get questions answered in a more intimate setting.
Kid's Club	September through May, students in grades K through 5 who belong to this community social club, meet at the school one Saturday evening per month to join in coach supervised sports, Bingo, dancing, games, movies, arts and crafts or other fun activities. Club supervision is provided by parents on a rotating basis, so families also get to know each other too.
PTA Meetings	Often there are presentations by school administration about school performance and administrative priorities. This is a venue for addressing parent concerns. Reports about PTA business, including a presentation of financials and reports about volunteer work and opportunities will be presented.
Book Fair	At this large scale and engaging fundraiser for PTA, families can grow their own libraries, the library at school and the library in their child's classroom. This year, the book fair will happen at Barnes and Nobles in the Rio.
Science Fair	Students learn science by doing science. Students in every grade do hands on experimentation and create problem solving inventions. And it all ends with something super exciting like a volcano exploding in the all purpose room.
